*“My mission in life
is not merely to survive,
but to thrive;
and to do so with some passion,
some compassion,
some humour,
and some style.”
-Maya Angelou*

That it will never come again
Is what makes life so sweet.
Believing what we don't believe
Does not exhilarate.

That if it be, it be at best
An ablative estate -
This instigates an appetite Precisely opposite.

- Emily Dickenson, "That it will never come again"
